Conclusion

- Multielement and multicom pound analysis at the µg / L level
- High separation efficiency due to the properties of a newly developed interface
- Excellent peak shapes
- Short analysis times
- Reproducible separations
- Good linearity
- Good precision of peak areas and migration times

References:

